EUROPE.

Still Disputing About the Stipulations.—England and Russia are still disputing about the stipulations of the new Russian Annexation in Asia Minor. The Russian Government has refused to accept the stipulations of the new Russian Annexation in Asia Minor. The Russian Government has refused to accept the stipulations of the new Russian Annexation in Asia Minor.

Despatch to the Daily Telegraph.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Paris, says: The British Government has telegraphed to General Sir Arnold Kemball to return home immediately. It is reported that England has decided to resist Russian aggression in Asia Minor.

Despatch to the Times.—A Vienna despatch to the Times, says: Russia's admission of the right of the Congress to discuss what points of the treaty are of European interest, does not seem to have been understood by England, and the difference is still unsettled.

Despatch to the Daily News.—A special to the Daily News from St. Petersburg, reports that the Russian Government has decided to accept the stipulations of the new Russian Annexation in Asia Minor. The Russian Government has decided to accept the stipulations of the new Russian Annexation in Asia Minor.

Despatch to the Times.—A special to the Times from Vienna, says: The evacuation of European Turkey, except Bulgaria, must be completed in three months after the declaration of peace, and a portion of Russian troops may embark on Black Sea and the sea of Marmora. It is doubtful on the strength of these conditions that the Russians will decline to march their troops out of the Balkans.

Forty-Fifth Congress.—WASHINGTON, March 21.—SENATE.—Corking presented a petition from the citizens of New York City, asking an appropriation to complete the Catalogue of the National Academy of Sciences. The Senate passed the bill.

The Times' Financial Article.—LONDON, March 21.—The Times' financial article says: "United States bonds continue to be bought and sold at a premium, and their price is maintained, but sales by English holders, corporate and individual, continue, and are sometimes in large quantities. The fear of the silver bill has died away, but the people now begin to dread what may follow it, and there is strong and widespread feeling that if America is to try experiments on their credit, they had much better do so with debt held at home than in English hands. People sell therefore, and are likely to continue to do so, while so much that is dangerous seems to surround United States' national finance."

The German Reichstag.—LONDON, March 21.—A special despatch from Berlin to the London morning journals, says: Prince Bismarck's bill separating the Railway Department from Prussian and Federal Railways, will probably be introduced in the Reichstag to-day. It is not believed that the bill will pass at present, but members intend to take the opportunity of debate on its first reading to question ministers regarding the existing Cabinet crisis. There is some talk of dissolving the Reichstag, and an attempt to carry new elections.

Washington Notes.—WASHINGTON, March 21.—Captain Adams, commanding of the United States Corvette, Hartford, died at Montevideo, of yellow fever.

A Brewery Burned.—SANDWICH, ISLAND, March 21.—A fire broke out in the private dwelling of Joseph Robinson's private dwelling was also burned. Loss on Brewery building and stock, $25,000; insurance, $150,000. Loss on dwelling and furniture, $15,000; insurance, $115,000.

The Thunderer on the Fisheries Award.—LONDON, March 21.—The Thunderer's editorial on the fisheries award, says: "It is unfortunate for the good fame of the United States that at a moment when the British fleet was engaged in the capture of the fishery, some American politicians of considerable importance and notoriety displayed another phase of the repulsive spirit in opposing the payment of the award. The reckless language of Mr. Blaine and General Balfour is not only throwing discredit on the country, but damaging to the system of settling international disputes by arbitration."

Distressed Father.—PROVIDENCE, March 21.—A family named Murray, in Newport, have four children lying dead from diphtheria, and three others not expected to live through the day. The father is almost insane and has threatened to shoot the undertaker. A police officer is compelled to be in attendance.

Death of Printing Press Adams.—PROVIDENCE, March 21.—Isaac Adams died at Providence, N. H., leaving a fortune of from 4 to 6 millions. He bought what is well known as Adams Printing Press from the inventor, and after he had received four thousand dollars in gold for the use of it in England.

English Strikers.—LONDON, March 21.—It is stated that the strike of the colliers in the North of England will probably terminate to-day. The colliers have agreed to work for the same wages as the other miners.

Failures.—LONDON, March 21.—One of the oldest banks in Prague, that of Grund, has suspended.

Minister Exonerated.—CINCINNATI, March 21.—Rev. Mr. Gilbert, formerly of Baltimore, accused of immoral practices, after a full investigation by his church, was fully exonerated.

Blockade of Nicaraguan Ports.—LONDON, March 21.—It is stated that Bismarck, being tired of Nicaraguan shuffling, has determined to order the blockade of the Nicaraguan ports.

A Denial From the Pope.—LONDON, March 21.—The Pope's intention to make Dr. John H. Newman a cardinal, is denied.

Last of the Paradoxi.—PARIS, March 21.—Lucy, daughter of the late Prevost-Paul, has died in a convent.

Walking.—CINCINNATI, March 21.—Von Hillen made her 100 miles in 28 hours.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Stowness of Congressional Proceedings.—"Honest John" Sherman Doubled—Old Time Senatorial Inactivity.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1878. "Take nothing, from nothing, and nothing remains." This is the motto of the House of Representatives. The House of Representatives is a body of men who are not doing anything. They are not doing anything. They are not doing anything.

Why he was Arrested in Pennsylvania.—RIDGEWAY, N. C., March 13, 1878. Sir: I see that you have published a notice of my arrest in West Chester, Pa., by order of Judge Butler, on the charge of an attempt to use an undue influence over the jurors called to try the "Kenneth Square will case."

I have been in Chester county, Pa., all winter, engaged in contesting the validity of the alleged will of Susanna Taylor. I was acting as the agent of Ann Pusey and other heirs interested in the case. The will was found, ten years ago, in the possession of a man who had been in Chester county, Pa., all winter, engaged in contesting the validity of the alleged will of Susanna Taylor.

Building and Loan Associations.

To the Editor of the News.—Sir: There are thousands of Building and Loan Associations in operation throughout the country, and it can be said in truth and honesty, that there is no other class of corporations that are doing more good for the people than these associations. They have enabled thousands of families to purchase homes and erect themselves comfortable homes with the money they would have had to pay for the rent of similar buildings for a period of ten or twelve years. Experience has demonstrated beyond cavil, that those who pay their monthly installments regularly, will fall due, and retain their stock until the stock becomes par, can in no event receive more than eight or ten per cent, on their investments in the stock of the company, or, more properly speaking, more than that amount of interest on the money they have paid in.

At the time these institutions were organized in North Carolina, were discounting good paper at 18 and 25 per cent, and taking the interest in advance, and the rents were exorbitant. It is not strange that humane, enlightened Christian men should have set themselves to work and labored to get our people to organize and put into successful operation these building associations that experience has abundantly proven to be so beneficial and profitable to the poor laboring classes.

I should like to see Judge Reade, or any other man, show how any one who borrows money out of one of these associations can be injured or oppressed, when he gets his money therefrom on his stock at six per cent per annum; on stock upon which he has not paid a cent; and when he promises to pay one dollar per share per month, or ten cents per share per month if he fails to promptly pay in like all the other stockholders have to do. It will require ten years or more to pay out his stock. Let any one pay the rents I have had to pay and contrast it with the sum I would have to pay into a building and loan association for ten or twelve years, then, perhaps, Judge Reade, and our other learned Judges on the Supreme Court Bench might be able to see, especially after deducting the amounts paid for State, county and town taxes, house rent, fire-wood, stationery, and salaries to the officers to conduct and manage the business, that the profit of these associations lies not on the side of the corporation, but on the side of the borrower.

It is no exaggeration to say that every dollar invested in a bank in this State, has and is making five times as much as any dollar invested in a building and loan association. There are others who make that faithfully comply with the terms of its charter and loans its money on ten or twelve years time at the rate of six per cent. Yet it is these institutions that the Supreme Court of North Carolina has felt called upon to legislate out of existence as ruinous and oppressive to the poor as the degree. This oppression appears so clearly to Judge Reade and his Honor, able Associates that they determined unanimously to annul the contract solemnly made between the contracting parties, and in such a way, that will enable the parties who have paid into these companies hundreds and thousands of dollars, to realize as much as three per cent per annum for the last eight or ten years.

If it is not encouraging villainy, it is certainly the grossest injustice, if not the most flagrant, to the thousands who have loaned their money at one-third less than they could possibly have borrowed elsewhere, on the same security, and for nine years longer time than any well-regulated and prudently managed bank in the Union would have loaned it. I know this to be the fact, and I can but feel amazed that the Judges of the Supreme Court should have so grossly deceived the people, and have so grossly deceived the people, and have so grossly deceived the people.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

Tennessee has 4,571 public schools, an increase of 694 over last year.

Atlanta is disposed to discourage the drumming method of soliciting business.

Ex Governor McMillen is an independent candidate for Congress in the ninth district of Virginia.

There is a fair probability that General Fitzhugh Lee will be returned to Congress in place of Beverly Douglas.

Capt. Eads predicts that with an improved river grain will be carried from St. Louis to New Orleans for three cents per bushel.

The officers and employees of the Texas and Pacific have organized an association, to be known as "The Texas and Pacific Railway Employers' Club."

The company has generously built a club-house at Marshall, Texas, and given it free use to the club.

The Sewing Society connected with the Mount Pleasant church have contributed the whole amount in their treasury to be appropriated towards a tablet or memorial window in memory of the late Rev. Dr. George Woodbridge.

The oyster pickers of Norfolk, Va., are indignant at the charge made against them recently of shipping State oysters to the North. They say that the charges are made against them in a spirit of jealousy, and that they are innocent of the charge.

The illicit distillers of Tennessee are again organizing determined resistance and revenge upon the revenue officers. In White county they have commenced by burning the barns of the revenue commissioner and three persons suspected of giving information. Some desperate fighting is anticipated.

Hon. R. M. T. Hunter has written a strong letter to Senator Lamar, in favor of the Texas Pacific road. He says its line is shorter, its grades easier, and its communication with foreign countries more probable, than those of any other route.

Mr. Jefferson Davis is described as being at present a very stout, very intelligent and very amiable-looking man. His face is round, he has a large and expressive mouth and black hair streaked with gray. He is kind-hearted, and is said by a correspondent of the Times of Chicago to be much liked in Memphis, especially by young people. Mr. Davis is very vain and looks very old and broken.

At Nashville, Tennessee, an immense crowd besieged the jail Sunday noon to witness the execution of receiving the Brassell brothers, who are to be hanged on the 27th instant, into the Methodist church. So great was the throng that the police had to be brought into requisition. Two hundred ladies participated in the exercises, many of whom were affected to tears. The murderers on being baptized were deeply affected, and said they hoped to meet all in heaven.

STATE NEWS.
Tallapoosa Southern: A company with above title has been formed in Martin County and they have purchased the steamer "Rotary" to ply between Hill's Ferry, on the Roanoke, and Norfolk.

Goldsboro Messenger: We learn from Princeton that the M. J. Langley, about 19 years old, was so shockingly burned, on Tuesday last, while burning corn stalks in a field near that town, that he died shortly afterwards.

Wilmington Star: Rev. Joseph R. Wilson, D. D., of the University of North Carolina, delivered the Baccalaureate sermon at the University of Alabama next June. The question of the introduction of the bell punch will probably be settled at the next regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

Charlotte Observer: Tuesday afternoon the corn mill, two cotton gins, cotton-seed separator, etc., of Mr. D. M. Fesperman, at Matthews' Station, ten miles east of this city, were totally destroyed by fire. The machinery was run by steam, and it is supposed that the fire was communicated from the engine. The loss is between $1,500 and $2,000.

Randolph Regulator: The Revenue officers have destroyed the county of Randolph, within the last fourteen days, nine stills and worms, with three extra worms, 151 stands of beer, and 99 gallons of whiskey. We learn from the different portions of the county, that the wheat crop is looking very promising, and the farmers are looking for an abundant yield should no disaster overtake it before maturity.

Robesonian: Mr. Norman McCrimmon, of Dandarrach, this county, killed at one shot, on the morning of the 12th inst., six large wild turkeys. It seems that Chief Justice Smith has already offended some of the newspapers and politicians of this State, and another Chief Justice is spoken of. Without any disposition to be captious, we think some of our people are too hard pressed. We were gratified to see that Smith was so popular. He was our choice, and we were glad to see such high endorsement of the whole State press. But a change has come over the spirit of their dreams, and now they are down on him.

Salem Press: Hendrix, the supposed murderer of Wiley county, was tried before Justice Bailey, at Mocksville, last week, and released for want of sufficient evidence. —William A. Mitchell, Esq., a prominent and highly respected citizen of Stokes county, died on the 8th inst., aged 51 years, 4 months, and 26 days. Mr. Mitchell represented Stokes county in the Legislature of 1842 and 1844, and served as clerk in various capacities, to the satisfaction of all concerned. —One day last week the hands employed by Mr. Wm. Delmar, in spading up ground at his residence on Elm Street, unearthed a portion of a half dollar coin mould. The metal was a composition, and in point of manufacture and correct imitation, exceedingly well executed. It is supposed to have been the property of some lawless counterfeiter of the long ago.

The Western Judges.

The reduction of the judicial districts from twelve to nine, necessitates the election of only three judges in place of the six whose terms of office expire during the present year. Messrs. Moore, Cox, Crook, Purches, Henry and Cannon are the retiring judges. The judgeships of the seventh, eighth and ninth judicial districts, under the new division of the State, as provided by chapter 255, laws of 1876-77, are to be filled. The present judicial districts remain unaltered until the first Thursday in August, 1878. The superior court judges, holding over on account of the non-expiration of their terms of office, are to be the judges for the several judicial districts in which they reside, respectively. This leaves upon the bench, Judges EURE, SEYMOUR, McKoy, DIXON, KERR and SCHENCK.

Under the new law the three judicial districts to be supplied with judges, are constituted as follows: The seventh judicial district is composed of the counties of Davie, Yadkin, Wilkes, Alleghany, Surry, Stokes, Forsythe, Davidson and Rowan; the eighth judicial district is composed of the counties of Catawba, Burke, McDowell, Yancey, Mitchell, Watauga, Ashe, Caldwell, Alexander and Iredell; and the ninth judicial district is composed of the counties of Graham, Cherokee, Haywood, Transylvania, Henderson, Buncombe and Madison.

The judges for these three judicial districts are to be elected on the first Thursday in August next. They are to be chosen by the qualified voters of the whole State. The question arises, how shall our candidates for these positions be nominated? Shall they be nominated by Democratic Conventions in the respective judicial districts, or by the State Convention? The question is an important one. It should be well considered. A nomination is equivalent to an election in each of the districts under consideration. For the first time, the Democrats have in their power to elect superior court judges. The very best method of making the most judicious selection of candidates should, therefore, be made. We cannot afford to make mistakes.

The arguments which may be advanced in support of the view that the nominations should be made by the State Convention, are not to be slighted. The three judges are to be elected by the qualified voters of the whole State; they are to hold court in all parts of the State, under the law requiring rotation; and therefore the whole people, through their representatives in Convention assembled, should have a voice in selecting them. Besides, the Democratic party will be held responsible for the selections which shall be made to fill these high posts, and are only fragments of that party to have the right to choose? And further, it might be dangerous to leave the nominations entirely with those whose private or local interests might tempt them to elevate the successful practitioner, rather than the sound judge of law. Lastly, it may be maintained, the assembled wisdom of the whole democracy is more likely to hit upon the right men for the vacant places, than limited portions or sections of the organization.

On the other hand it may be urged, with force, that the constitution by requiring that the judge of the Superior Court of each judicial district "shall be elected from the said district," and "shall reside in the district for which he is elected," fixed upon him a local character, which that other provision of the constitution compelling judges to rotate over the State, does not change or affect in any way. The judge is permanently attached by the law to his own particular district, though made from time to time to reside in the courts of the other districts. He has the chambers business of his own district to do, and the people of the district must know better than the State at large, who among the local lawyers would fill the position most efficiently, faithfully and acceptably. The citizens of the several districts are more capable of making proper selections than the citizens of the State at large. The best judges of the qualifications of a man for any position are his neighbors. As well said by our Alleghany correspondent, some time ago, "any man possessing the necessary legal ability, with the other requirements known to almost every individual within the district for which he is to be elected, and in a convention composed of the people of the district, to whom the aspirants are all personally known, who, from their personal knowledge of the men, are able to judge of their merits, the sound judge of law is more likely to receive that recognition which he deserves than in a State convention, where, from the very nature of the case, a very large portion of the delegates must act without any personal knowledge of the men between whom they are choosing." What, for instance, would the average delegate from Currituck know of the lawyer in Burke or Buncombe best qualified to make a judge? Or what do the citizens of Craven know of the merits of the lawyers of Ashe or Alleghany? They cannot be expected to have such intimate acquaintance with the candidates as to enable them to make the right selections.

Besides all this, should the State convention assume the right to name the three judges, nominations might be forced which are unacceptable to the districts more nearly interested. The dissatisfaction thus bred might culminate in opposition to the regular nominees, and elements of discord be introduced into our ranks where unity and harmony are so essential. But, if the people of the several districts make their own selections, nobody is likely to complain; and all will be well. We may rely upon the good sense and patriotism of the Democrats of the north and south, and the transmontane sections, where these districts lie. We are confident that they will make selections which will command the hearty approval of the entire body of Conservatives.

The nominations should be made before the State Convention meets, and submitted to it for its endorsement. No candidate's name should go upon the general ticket without the approval of the State Convention.

The New York Tribune has commenced the publication of a series of articles intended to secure the diversion of the unemployed labor in the cities into the idle lands of the Southern States, as a practical solution of the labor problem. The first article appeared some days ago. It was devoted to West Virginia, showing its agricultural and mineral resources, climate and accessibility to market. The Tribune concludes that if the numerous local railroads projected were finished, and the remote corners of the State thus opened to trade, West Virginia would become one of the most important, as she is one of the healthiest and richest, States in the Union. It expresses the belief that a diversion of Northern capital and workmen into her undeveloped tracts will soon effect this. What is said of West Virginia applies equally to North Carolina. Our State is every whit its equal in point of natural resources, and salubrity of climate; and in many respects its superior. We have little hope of immigration to our borders.

The outflow population of the North is not worth having,—we mean that from which the tramps come. Few of the substantial men of the North are likely to move South. We must first create that section in school advantages and facilities of transportation. The great burden of debt upon us must be lifted; though that need not scare off any would-be immigrant, as the danger of its being paid is almost too remote to be considered. And finally, the prejudices, hatreds and enmities bred by the war, must have died out before Northerners will settle among us in any considerable numbers. That obliteration of past animosities and perfect restoration of good will can only be hoped for when the generation of men who fought for Southern independence, and their children, have lived out their little day. But still, it is the duty and the interest of all of us, to exert our fullest influence to induce desirable Northern immigration, and the efforts of the Tribune in this behalf deserve commendation and support.

The New Orleans Democrat is very anxious to have the Militia of Louisiana organized at once, and says: "But few of the radical leaders and ruffians have left this State—there is no reason why they should, they go wholly unopposed—they are lingering here yet, waiting, hoping for some opportunity to revive the days of Warmoth and Kellogg. In event of disturbances, which are always possible as long as these demagogues are among us, how could we stop them? Durell's midnight order, the 4th of January, 1875, must ever preclude Louisiana from calling in the aid of the Federal Government. The idea is impossible, undemocratic, horrible. Louisiana, in all contingencies, must depend upon her own resources. What we need now is a regular Militia, uniformed, well equipped, well armed, and well drilled." The idea prevails now in almost every State in the Union, that each State should depend upon its own force for the preservation of law and order within its borders.

At the General Conference to be held in Atlanta, in May, five Bishops are to be elected to fill vacancies and for the supply of new fields of labor, opened up by their missionaries. Several distinguished Methodist ministers of North Carolina have been spoken of in connection with these exalted offices; among them, Doctors CRAVENS, WILSONS, BURMAN, CROSS and BOHNET—names familiar as household words in all the length and breadth of the State. Each of these eminent preachers has a host of friends who would delight in his promotion. All of them have received from their church, in this State, marked recognition of their learning, piety and zeal. The selection of any one of them would be a recognition of North Carolina Methodism richly deserved.

The Massachusetts Legislature has passed a law to protect depositors in Savings Banks. The most unsafe place for keeping money is the modern Savings Bank. The reason of this is because they have no bottom to stand on except the honesty of individuals, which has lately become the sandest of foundations; and will continue so until the nation undergoes a process of reformation.

There will be lively times in the second Congressional District this year, we understand. Candidates of all the colors of the rainbow are popping up. Such a scramble as will be for the seat now occupied by the "child of the skies," has not been seen since the flood. We have not space this morning to even give the names of the numerous aspirants.

The name of Hon. GEORGE HOWARD for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court appears at the mast head of the Tallapoosa Southern, which presents him as "a man in every way worthy, sound in State's rights and other popular questions, and one who is true and has been tried."

The State Executive Committee of the Democratic party meets in this city next Wednesday, the 27th inst. A full attendance of the members composing the Committee is desired.

An interesting article on Building and Loan Associations will be found on our front page. It is from the pen of a distinguished gentleman of Greensboro.

If we can reach April 10th without frost, the fruit will be safe. So say the weather prophets. The prospect for fruit is magnificent.

ALLEN & CRAW
PRACTICAL FOUNDERS
—AND—
Machinists

RALEIGH, N. C.
Having bought all the Patterns and Machinery of the late firm of W. T. Adams & Sons, we propose to make or repair at the same place, all kinds of

ENGINE, MILL, COTTON GIN AND GENERAL MACHINERY.

By a practical knowledge of and personal application to business, we hope to merit a continuation of, but to add to the patronage we have heretofore received.

Respectfully,
G. M. ALLEN,
WM. CRAW.
